Mrs. King's slayer found guilty

ATLANTA (UPI) — A racially mixed jury found Marcus Wayne Chenault guilty today of murdering Mrs. Martin Luther King Sr. and a church deacon in a shooting spree at Ebenezer Baptist Church June 30.

The jury deliberated 70 minutes before returning its verdict of guilty on all five counts in Fulton County Superior Court. Chenault had been charged with two counts of murder, one of aggravated assault and two of carrying concealed weapons.

Cruise ship burns off Florida; crew safe

KEY WEST, Fla. (UPI) — The cruise ship Cunard Ambassador, en route to New Orleans to pick up passengers, caught fire in the Florida straits today and 240 crewmen fled over the side in lifeboats, leaving 50 men aboard to fight the blaze.

There were no passengers aboard the two-year-old cruise ship and the Coast Guard said there were no reports of injuries or fatalities.

The Coast Guard said the 240 crewmembers who abandoned the 466-foot luxury liner in nine boats all were picked up safely by the Navy cargo ship Tallulah.

Low profile

NEW YORK (UPI) — Washington Post Publisher Katherine Graham thinks journalists "should lower their profile."

"The press as a character of events, not a participant, is essential to the functioning of a democratic society," she told a breakfast. In her honor Wednesday, she said, she hopes newsmen can continue to mirror society and its complexities for readers and viewers.

Saudis, Iran oppose oil price boost

VIENNA (UPI) — Saudi Arabia and Iran said today they opposed a recommendation by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries to raise the price of crude oil by 4 per cent.

Sheikh Ahmed Zaki Yamani, Saudi Arabian oil minister, said his country opposed any increase at all. Asked if Saudi Arabia opposed an increase from $16.65 a barrel, Yamani said, "Of course."

Boston whites boycott school opening

BOSTON (UPI) — Thousands of children refused to enter a court ordered desegregated schools on the first-day of classes today in this historic city, home of the nation's first public school system.

There were no reports of serious trouble as parents apparently chose to keep children out of classes, thereby forcing a face-to-face confrontation. There was one "shoving incident" at South Boston High School.

Police Commissioner Robert DiGrazia personally escorted some black children from buses into South Boston High School.

Sense better

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Supreme Court Justice William H. Rehnquist says he would like to see a "sanitized, gray world" if they had to give up club memberships and other "civil activities" to avoid the appearance of conflicts of interest.

He said that life style would result "in an appreciable gain gain that I can see for the judicial process overall... a thoroughly ethical approach mixed with some common sense."

Solons oppose 'Gate case interference

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott said today there appears to be a "unanimous feeling" in Congress that there should be no interference with impending Watergate cases.

"I don't know of any congressman or senator who wants a blanket pardon at this time," Scott said after a two-hour meeting with President Ford at the White House. "I don't think the American people want any blanket pardons."

Ford says funds won't meet obligation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford told congressional leaders today that proposed authorizations for foreign military and economic aid will not meet the United States' commitments abroad.

Democratic and Republican leaders reported after a meeting with Ford and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger that Congress likely will pass a continuing resolution to maintain the foreign aid program at present spending levels until February, when the new Congress would try to reach a compromise.

EMPEROR HAILE SELASSIE
... 43 year reign ends

Army ousts Ethiopian emperor

LONDON (UPI) — Ethiopia's earned-forces toppled Emperor Haile Selassie today from his 3,000-year-old throne and proclaimed a military regime to rule the country corporately.

The army, which promised elections and invited Selassie's son, Crown Prince Woosean, to take the throne as a figurehead constitutional monarch, U.S. Embassy sources in London said. Woosean, 57, is ill in Switzerland.

Selassie, the tiny, 82-year-old "Lion of Judah," bowed to the inevitable this morning and accepted an Armed Forces Committee decree deposing him as Emperor of the nation he had ruled since 1916, the sources said.

The American sources said Addis Ababa, the Ethiopian capital, was quiet. They said they had no word of the Emperor's whereabouts. Other sources said he had been taken from the palace this morning, nationalized a month ago and conveyed to a place "especially prepared for him."

The armed forces did not abolish Ethiopia's monarchy, which is said to date in an unbroken succession from a union between the Biblical King Solomon and the Queen of Sheba.

The decree said new elections would be held, though it specified no time, and a new constitution proclaimed, the sources said.

It ignored Selassie's decree naming his grandson, a student in England, as his successor and invited Crown Prince Woosean, Selassie's sole surviving son, to assume the crown.

In 1960 Woosean was implicated in a revolt by Selassie's palace guard while the Emperor was abroad. Selassie quickly quelled that revolt.

But in recent years southern Ethiopia has been gripped by a killing drought. In the end it was this drought and Selassie's handling of it in the context of his feudal and absolute power, that led to his overthrow.

Speed bid fails

MILDENHALL, England (UPI) — A U.S. Air Force SR71 spyplane took off today in an attempt to set a new London-Los Angeles speed record and then had to abandon the attempt because of engine trouble, the Air-Force said.

An Air-Force spokesman said the SR71 returned to this Royal Air Force base 36 minutes after takeoff. He said another attempt would be made Friday.

BOISE — Four coal-fired nuclear power plants are planned for Idaho within 26 years, according to an Idaho Water Resource Board study.

Vern King, who prepared the study, told the Times-News Wednesday that three of the huge thermal plants should be constructed in the 1980s. Two of the plants would be coal-fired while the other two would be either coal-fired or nuclear, he said.

"Power Plant Siting and Water Needs for Future Power Generation in Idaho" projects that long-range power needs will require construction of 13 plants in the state by 2000.

The study cited the following plants to meet Idaho's power needs by the year 2000: two 1,500-megawatt Idaho Power Co. plants in southern Idaho; one Utah Power and Light Co. 1,500-megawatt plant in the Bear River Basin in southeastern Idaho; and one 650-megawatt plant in the panhandle region.

Idaho Power Co. has announced its "pioneer" project to construct a 1,000-megawatt coal-fired plant near Bliss, Boise or Mountain Home by 1980 and possibly expand it to 2,000 megawatts capacity within the decade.

King said plants are "pretty firm" for a second, similarly sized Idaho Power Co. plant in south-central or southeastern Idaho by the year 2000. This plant, he said, might be either coal-fired or nuclear.

Idaho Power information officer Bob Brown said the company is conducting a study on the possibility of a nuclear plant "somewhere in southern Idaho." He would not specify the locations being considered nor the construction time-frame. He did say the plant might be coal-fired instead of nuclear.

King said the 650-megawatt panhandle plant and the 1,500-megawatt plant planned for the Bear River Basin were planned to be built in the 1980s.

He said he obtained his data for the study from talking with utility company officials. In a preliminary report of possible power plant sites were mentioned, but were taken out following objections from the public.

Brown said he understood the report was based on very informal conversations with the representatives of the different companies. It was described to me by the head of the department of water resources as a pie-in-the-sky sort of study.

"We took a look at what the projected needs are going to be. We went to the power companies to see if they were geared up to meet these needs. It looks pretty well like they are," he said.

Industrial materials fuel price increase

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government reported today the wholesale price index for August climbed 3.5 per cent above the July level. When the prices were adjusted for seasonal variations, it was the second highest monthly jump in nearly 28 years.

The large August increase pushed the wholesale price index to 167.4, which was 17.6 per cent above a year ago, the Labor Department said.

Industrial commodities — up 2.4 per cent for the month and 27.5 per cent ahead of a year ago — accounted for the major part of the price index rise.

The prices of metals, chemicals, machinery and parts and paper accounts for about 80 per cent of the increase in industrial commodities, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics. The August advance in farm products and processed foods and feeds prices was 6.2 per cent.

After prices on all commodities were adjusted for seasonal variations, the increase was 3.9 per cent for August, the highest since August, 1973 when the increase was 6.2 per cent and the second highest since November, 1948.

The 3.5 per cent increase was the third biggest in the last year. The increase in July was 3.9 per cent and last August it was 3.6 per cent.

The only major groups showing declines were lumber and wood products which have dropped for the fourth consecutive month and hides and skins.

The prices for motor vehicles were slightly higher but do not yet reflect the higher prices posted on new model cars that will be introduced in the fall. All major types of machinery and equipment showed price increases.

The August index for fuels and related products was 67.2 per cent higher than a year ago, up 1.5 per cent ahead of a year ago. Gasoline was 5.6 per cent higher. The price of refined petroleum products gained only 1.9 per cent in July but was 8.2 per cent higher than one year ago.

In the metals only iron and steel scrap declined. Most fabricated metal products increased, especially structural products, metal containers, bolts, nuts, screws, springs and stampings.

Industrial and agricultural chemicals, plastic resins and inedible fats and oils pushed the chemicals index 6.1 per cent higher in August.

In the food group there were price declines reported for fresh and processed fish, milk, rice, ground coffee, fresh processed milk, flour, nonfat dry milk and broilers and fryers. But generally processed foods and feeds were higher mostly because of increases in animal feeds, fat and oils, sugar and meats.

Nixon's leg grows worse

WASHINGTON (UPI) — David Eisenhower sold today that one of former President Nixon's legs is swollen twice its normal size from phlebitis, a blood disease, and "his health is not good."

Eisenhower, Nixon's son-in-law, also said that Nixon would have rejected the parole offered by President Ford if it had been offered "to President Eisenhower for Vietnam draft evaders and deserters."

Eisenhower, a law student at George Washington University, said he talked with Nixon by telephone Wednesday night and decided to be interviewed on the NBC Today Show because "some people should be reacting to the pardon on behalf of the family."

He said he and his wife, Julie, haven't seen the former President since he resigned his office Aug. 9 and returned to his San Clemente, Calif., estate.

Eisenhower was asked to comment on reports that Nixon is suffering details of depression. "He's not his usual up-and-downs," Eisenhowe said. "Some people describe him as being sharper than ever in certain meetings and at times... yes he's depressed."

"Right at this very moment he's not feeling well. He has his leg elevated because of the phlebitis in his leg... the clot has moved above the knee and his one leg is swollen about twice its normal size. His health is not good."

"He's fighting that. He can't play golf, he can't relax, he can't unwind and so I would say his spirits are not great right now. There's no question about that..."

Crash claims F-111 air crew

MOUNTAIN HOME — A US Air Force F-111 crashed in the vicinity of the Taylor Creek gunnery range at 10:23 p.m. Wednesday, killing two crew members.

The plane, which was on a night training mission, was based at Mountain Home Air Force base.

Killed in the crash was Capt. William A. Kennedy Jr., 29, whose wife Nancy lives on the base. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Kennedy, Dallas, Tex. Also dead is 2nd Lt. David C. McKenna, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. McKenna, Portland, Tex.

A board of Air Force officers is being convened to investigate the cause of the crash.

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls city and county clean-up and damage costs resulting from Evel Knievel's jump activity will be charged against an insurance bond the stuntman posted with the county.

County Commissioner Merl Leonard said today the county is collecting estimates of cleanup and damage costs and will notify Knievel's bonding agent, United Pacific Insurance Co., Boise, of the amount of the expected claim to be filed against a $10,000 clean up and damage bond Knievel filed with the county prior to his jump.

The costs will include clean-up of roads near the jump site by the Twin Falls Highway District, as well as damage and clean up expenses incurred by the City in restoring Stevens Park, Leonards said.

The claims against the bond, however, will not include any private claims for property damage against the stuntman, Leonard added.

Private claims, such as an impending claim by the Twin Falls Jaycees for losses when a club-sponsored beer truck at the jump site was broken in, will be handled through Knievel's attorney and his private insurance agent, Leonard said.

The commissioner said Knievel, under county ordinance, was required to carry $1 million in liability insurance to protect the county from any claims filed against it stemming from his jump.

The claims against the cleanup and damage bond will not include extra security costs incurred by the county during the Knievel jump. These costs will be borne by the county.

Said Sheriff Paul Corder: "I will submit a cost statement to the county within a few days."

Wounded Knee case goes to jury

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI) — Defense attorney William Kinsler told the court in his opening statement in the Wounded Knee trial: "These men are now in your hands. Take good care of them. They are my brothers."

His case completed, he sat down at the defense table and wept.

The jury of nine women and three men voted to begin deliberation of the guilt or innocence of Indians Dennis Banks and Russell Means, accused of five counts of felony each last year's takeover of Wounded Knee, S.D.

"Final arguments ended Wednesday."

Kinsler, a veteran of civil rights cases, praised his clients for taking action in the name of Indian rights. "I'm glad the government charges against the defendants have been said by prosecutors about everyone who stood up through history."

"Those who never speak never bring about change," he said.

The prosecution, however, told the jury not to decide whether the takeover of the South Dakota reservation village was right or wrong, but whether "crimes were committed."

"I don't care if they were right or wrong. In taking over Wounded Knee — the law in a free society cannot continue

Keep kids clean, Gem aide says

BONIE (UPI) — Three Idaho health officials, following the release of data showing there is a lead contamination problem in the Kellogg area, have made suggestions for decreasing lead absorption in the area's children.

Dr. John A. Mathew, state health officer; Margaret Tregoning, Region 1 director for the Department of Health and Welfare; and Larry Belmont, director of the Panhandle District Health Department, recommended that parents:

"Insist that your children keep dirty fingers and dusty objects like toys, sticks, and leaves out of their mouths. Make sure they wash their hands before they eat anything. Thoroughly wash locally grown fruits and vegetables before they are eaten."

"Wash play clothes each time they are worn, if children get them dirty outside. Don't let children wear dirty outside play clothes in the house."

"Bathe children at night if they become dirty playing outside during the day."

"Use a wet mop to clean floors and a damp mop to dust furniture."

Religious leaders press for general Viet amnesty

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A growing number of religious leaders are urging President Ford to grant a "universal and unconditional" amnesty to all those in legal jeopardy because of the war in Vietnam.

The most recent appeal came from four major religious institutions, who told Ford an amnesty applied universally and unconditionally is a necessary step for healing in the nation.

It came in a letter to the President written by Rev. Theodore Hesburgh, president of Notre Dame; Rabbi Irwin M. Blank, president of the Synagogue Council of America; Dr. Rev. Edmond L. Browning, executive of the Episcopalian Church's National World Missions Agency; and Teresa Hoover, assistant General Secretary of the United Methodist Church's Women's Division.

The four church leaders said if Ford's amnesty proposal excluded certain categories of people or was so strict that few take advantage of it, "our nation would continue to have an exile community and an underground community at home."

"Consequently," they said, "we would not be united, but divided and the wounds would remain."

In particular, the four stressed, the large number of Vietnam era veterans who had received so-called "bad paper" discharges — a less than honorable status which they said impeded the veteran from finding employment and is a liability in entering many financial arrangements.

Ford, in his first statements on amnesty, indicated they would involve only draft resisters and those deserters.

In addition, the four leaders said they disagreed with "the contention reported in the press that the Department of Defense and the Department of Justice in their report on amnesty to you advocated that for the act to heal it must have the support of the majority of Americans."

"What may be unpopular in the short run," they said, "could only in the long run...

"Offering compassion to one group of men does not denigrate the service that veterans have performed, nor does continuing to punish war resisters and veterans," they said.

Following the statement that erupted after the President pardoned Nixon, the White House said the unveiling of Ford's plan for Vietnam war-related amnesty would be temporarily delayed.

Trading credits stalled

(c) New York Times Service
BRUSSELS — Negotiators from the United States, the European Community, Britain and Japan, meeting in Brussels Wednesday, failed to conclude a gentleman's agreement designed to prevent wasteful competition among them in giving credits to their trade partners.

The accord under discussion since early this year would set a "minimum interest rate" for export credits which would eliminate competitive underbidding and also fix minimum time limits for repayment.

Informed sources said that the key disagreement at the talks was on the minimum interest rate. The Americans whose Export-Import Bank is run like a commercial bank sought a rate as close to the current market rates as possible and the others called for a lower rate.

After the meeting, Treasury Undersecretary Jack Bennett who led the American delegation, said the U.S. wanted a minimum rate of 8 per cent plus one half a percent for insurance fees.

Reportedly, the Europeans and Japanese moved from a proposed 7 per cent position to 7.5, but would not go further. Bennett said that the U.S. in its export credit policy was moving toward a reliance on market conditions, but that at present some countries involved in the talks were giving credits at as low as 6 per cent.

Ferry aids stuck liner

LE HAVRE, France (UPI) — The Viking 3 ferry came to the rescue today of hundreds of passengers marooned on the luxury liner France when striking crew members forced the captain to drop anchor three miles out to sea.

The seamen said they were not mutineers but strikers protesting the French government's decision to phase out the 65,348 ton vessel, the largest passenger ship in the world.

One union leader said the liner will stay anchored three miles outside of Le Havre, its home port, "until an agreement has been signed."

The Viking 3 went alongside the immobilized liner this morning and began taking on the 1,265 passengers in a light rain. Two special trains were standing by to take the passengers to Paris.

"All the passengers should be loaded and be in the port here in a few hours," Bernard Passot, an official of the French Line said.

"We haven't had much practice at this type of disembarkation," Passot said, "but things seem to be going well. There is no wind."

China after Chou

China is compulsively secret. It seemed about to open itself up to foreign eyes for a brief period after President Nixon's trip to Peking in 1972, but the obscurantism has descended again. The result is that nothing short of a public funeral will stop the world wondering about the political and physical health of its leaders.

The ruler of China, En-lai has had a heart attack is still more than one clue to his condition. But the fact that he was seen in a hospital three weeks ago by Sen. Henry Jackson confirms that the 76-year-old prime minister is indeed a sick man. The implications of this illness for China could be enormous.

If Chou is sick enough to be on the verge of retiring, the question is whether he would leave the country or not. He would have to go back to their drawing boards. The standard projection for the next decade is that China should make a relatively smooth transition into the post-Mao era provided Chou En-lai continues to hold the country together as he has done for so many years.

China watchers have hesitated even to speculate about what would happen if Chou should die or disappear before Mao, because China without its perennial prime minister is both unthinkable and wholly unpredictable.

Oddly enough, the immediate impact of Chou's death or resignation would probably be less acute than the longer-term one. He has two extremely able deputies, with long experience in top-level administration. With the exception of pragmatic flexibility very like his own, Teng Hsiao-ping, who is now tipped as the next prime minister, spent ten years running the other great Chinese bureaucracy which paralleled Chou's government administration, the party machine.

Li Fuchang, the other deputy prime minister, was denounced during the Cultural Revolution of 1966-69 as an expression of economic pragmatism. "To think that only profit counts is wrong but to ignore profit completely is also wrong." Li has been directly concerned with the profitability of China's economy for 25 years as the minister of finance and trade. If Teng succeeds Chou as prime minister, Li might well take over a large part of the job while Teng concentrates on foreign affairs.

So foreign policy and economic development should remain, for the moment, in the hands of two men very similar to Chou En-lai in experience, outlook and even, to a large degree, in ability. But there would still be one vital function which neither Teng nor Li nor anyone else can be expected to perform: the role of the chief conciliator.

Even during the 1950s, when China's leaders were still a relatively cohesive group of old comrades, Chou was called upon to reconcile divergent policies and personalities. But this talent for handling people really came into its own during the cultural revolution when the prime minister, already past retiring age, spent 20-hour days sorting out Red Guard factions, negotiating with army commanders and defending besieged colleagues while at the same time managing miraculously, to preserve China as a going concern.

His remarkable juggling act from 1966 to 1969 was followed by another equally remarkable one during the Cultural Revolution when he successfully saw China through the potentially explosive aftermath of Lin Piao's crisis in 1971 and at the same time engineered a total turnaround in China's foreign policy.

All this made him the nearest thing to indispensable that any politician can be. Today he is still the central figure in Chinese politics. But what he seems to be missing is his magic as a mediator. Ever since the radicals started gunning for him under the cover of the anti-Confucius campaign last summer, Chou has been transformed, however much against his will, from compromiser into contestants.

If he perceived that it was Mao who had done this to him by his own policies, or even worse, and if his health was simultaneously declining, then he may well have decided that his only option was to withdraw from power.

For the moment the moderates of the Chou school seem to be holding their own in the tug-of-war which has been played out in Peking's streets for the past month as posters attack on party officials are slapped up and torn down. Chou's retirement would almost certainly upset whatever uneasy balance now prevails between the rival forces.

It would then be up to Mao to prevent China from sliding back into the kind of social revolution that has brought us, my peace that Mao can patch up is unlikely to last a day longer than the 80-year-old chairman himself.

China has been conditioning itself for the loss of Mao ever since the cult of his thought began in the 1950s; by now Mao has been effectively embalmed as an institution and an icon. The Chinese are all too unprepared for, however, is the death of Mao without the comforting presence of Chou En-lai as chief mourner.

If Mao has been China's spiritual guide these many years, Chou has been its security blanket. The second may well turn out to be the more sorely missed.

"According to the Script We Should Be Heading Toward Open Water!"

Talk of unity begins rising among Europeans

(C) New York Times Service

DUBLIN — A political journey across Western Europe these days is depressing and expensive.

Inflation has produced doubt and anxiety about the future of political democracy. The world war, the free nations' keen dependence on one another, at the same time so stubbornly nationalistic and preoccupied with their own internal struggles.

Ireland is only the most dramatic and tragic symbol of this narrow and separatist mood. Geographically and economically it is linked to Britain and Europe, but it is also separated by history and religion. And the crowning paradox: It is engaged in a religious war among unbelievers, tyrannized by a minority of extremists on both sides.

Two powerful but contradictory forces seem to be in conflict in Europe today. Separated one nation from another, it is weak. United within each nation, it is weaker still. But united, it has the people, brains, and resources to stand in the forefront of the coming age alongside the United States, Soviet Union, and the emerging power of China and Latin America.

This, however, is not the way Europe is going today. Looking from west to east, Ireland is hurting the British army in Ulster, but fearing that the withdrawal of that army for financial reasons in London might lead to a disastrous civil war.

France is finally abolishing its African empire, but its government is confronted by a well-organized Communist Party.

Spain is trying to make the transition from the authoritarian government of Generalissimo Francisco Franco to a monarchy.

France just missed becoming a republic of Socialists and Communists but it will take all of Valery Giscard d'Estaing's intelligence and style to establish the peaceful revolution of reform he has proclaimed.

Italy is broke and in a bad political tangle.

Greece has come to the verge of war with Turkey over Cyprus.

Meanwhile, Marshal Tito in Yugoslavia, the stabilizing influence between East and West in the Balkans, is coming to the end of his days.

Accordingly, the question is what the new leaders of the world — Ford in Washington, Giscard d'Estaing in Paris, Chancellor Schmidt in Bonn, Tanaka in Japan, and Wilson or Heath in Britain, who do about this critical transitional period of world history?

Fortunately, in Europe there is another force at work in the universities, in the newspapers, and particularly among the rising young generation. The teachers, the reporters and the students are seeking a different coming age. They are talking about integration.

Even some politicians in Europe are beginning to think beyond the divisions of the present to the possibility of unity in the future. The Republic of Ireland, for example, has a brilliant young foreign secretary — Garry Fitzgerald, who is risking his political position by arguing publicly for a unified Ireland.

"I believe the time has come," he wrote, "for all Irish politicians who genuinely believe in a united Ireland, so organized that people from both communities will feel equally at home within it, to speak out and to lead the people of Ireland toward this goal. We may find that some of our people reject this idea, but that in the process of creating political structures become enriched or even destroyed; this is what we shall have to pay if called upon to do."

So in the short run the outlook in Europe is bleak, but there is a new rising generation and it is beginning to emphasize not separation but integration.

Basic decency big help

WASHINGTON — Once upon a time Nelson Rockefeller told reporters, "I'm proud to be a politician."

That was on Oct. 30, 1973. A little more than a year later, last June 7, he announced, "You know I'm not basically a politician."

Well, without belaboring the subject, Rockefeller is indeed a politician and always has been. No one can be a politician and not have served four terms as governor of New York, where amateurs are served up as apprentices in smoke-filled rooms. As a politician, he would have liked to be president; perhaps he still does — hope dies hard in the politician's breast. But because above all the politician wants a piece of the action, Rockefeller accepted President Ford's nomination for the vice presidency.

All of which suggests that Rockefeller is Gerald Ford's kind of man. Ford is basically a conservative and Rockefeller likes to describe himself as a centrist, but in fact neither is a rigid ideologue, as revealed by Ford's moderate stand on amnesty and Rockefeller's prudent turn to the Right during his years in Alaska.

I suggest that both are pragmatists in the best sense of the word. Ford might well have addressed himself to the subject of national priorities in the same language Rockefeller used last February.

"We know so much today, as a nation, that the ideal is way beyond the realistic grasp of our society," Rockefeller said. "Therefore, what the government's got to do is to combine the ideal with the realistically doable, or possible, and balance one sector off against another." In the House, Ford always worked for what could be done in a given, controversial situation.

On the other hand, a risky amendment that the President would lend himself to Vice President Rockefeller, he wouldn't hear much with which he would significantly disagree. In foreign affairs particularly, both Ford and Rockefeller have been consistent internationalists, while prudently wary of the Soviet Union's intentions and good faith. Last February, Rockefeller might have spoken for both men when he said, "I'm enthusiastic for defense — and I'm for it — I have a feeling that some of the longer-range security problems are being ignored."

On the Middle East, Rockefeller has been a strong advocate of Israel. Late October, he demanded that the United States "continue to stand firm and fast with Israel in this hour of peril (in) the cause of lasting peace." Ford is trying to "persuade Israel to be more conciliatory, but he's not about to abandon" his support of Tel Aviv.

Both Ford and Rockefeller are good party men as long as possible during Richard Nixon's Watergate crisis. Ford defended Nixon as "innocent" as late as a couple of weeks before Nixon's resignation. And last March Rockefeller was opposed to Nixon quitting, saying that "Those who would push him out of office or force his resignation would be circumventing the constitutional process."

Neither, of course, knew all the facts. Probably, both had formed private moral judgments of Richard Nixon. But on the facts as they stood, they were probably loyal.

That decency will do much to make their relationship a compatible one if Congress approves Rockefeller's nomination.

ANDREW
TULLY

In Southeast Asia, both men have been wrong. But both come to distrust the all-out war in Vietnam and to conclude that there could be no purely military solution.

Finally, both Ford and Rockefeller were good party men as long as possible during Richard Nixon's Watergate crisis. Ford defended Nixon as "innocent" as late as a couple of weeks before Nixon's resignation. And last March Rockefeller was opposed to Nixon quitting, saying that "Those who would push him out of office or force his resignation would be circumventing the constitutional process."

Sleeping bag generation boosts food bills

WASHINGTON — I was surprised to read in the newspaper last week that Mrs. Ford said her family was cutting down on their food bills as a way of fighting inflation.

The reason I was surprised was that Mrs. Ford has teen-agers, and there is no way you can cut a food budget when you have teen-agers living in the house. It isn't the immediate family that costs money — it's feeding everyone else's children that sends your food costs skyrocketing.

In the past, most of us would give away what we didn't eat and sell a shirt or two to buy a cookie. But in recent years we seem to be sustaining large masses of youth, which I have dubbed, for want of a better name, the Sleeping Bag Generation.

Last month my grocery bill for a family of four on Martha's Vineyard was $791. This is what happened.

Three sleeping bags showed up at the door:

friends of Jenny, and she said we could sleep on your lawn so we won't be arrested and tortured by the police with chains and rubber hoses."

"We won't be any bother," a voice from another sleeping bag said. "We have stale doughnuts for dinner."

I gave permission for them to camp out on the lawn. When my daughter came home I informed her that three of her dearest friends had arrived and set up camp.

"Boys or girls?" Jenny asked.

"Boys," I replied.

It turns out that sleeping bags require large amounts of nourishment. While those of us who live in the house could get by on bluefish or eggs, the sleeping bags had to be fed stink beans, imported cheeses, French bread, butter and a good brand of beer.

Every day my daughter, who never did find out their names, carried down provisions to the sleeping bags. The zippers would open up automatically and they would consume $60 worth of groceries at a feeding.

In exchange for the food, the sleeping bags strummed music on a guitar in our living room while I was trying to watch the evening news.

Now that I'm back in Washington, the sleeping bags are starting to show up here. Many turn to be friends of the sleeping bags who camped on my property — Martha's Vineyard. If I refuse hospitality for them I am considered an open my children. But if I let them spread out on the grass I'm going to have another hungry army bill.

I'm not Mrs. Ford is telling the truth-when, she says she's been able to cut back on her food bills. But I figure the only way she has been able to do this is by having the Secret Service hoot all the goose-feather sleeping bag acquaintances of her children right off the White House lawn.

Honors due fallen men

WASHINGTON — Every September brings from the FBI its Uniform Crime Report.

The tabulated figures are mostly assembled row on row, as neatly as troops, as silent as tombstones. With the exception of April 15, the date of the annual April 15, the date of the annual Memorial Day, the figures are the lowest.

That is the number of local, county and state law enforcement officers who are slain last year in the line of duty. It was the highest annual

Director Clarence Kelley's report is a bloodless, faceless, computerized affair. Out of the punch-card correlations, certain composite images emerge, but the images do not speak to our senses. We do not hear the shots, or smell the danger or see faces contorted in fear or rage. We have only the silent numbers.

Over the past 10 years, 23 officers have died from handguns. Most officers are slain in robbery pursuit or in attempting other arrests. Last year saw 29 officers killed in responding to "disturbance" calls. It is shocking that 25 policemen were killed as they made routine traffic stops.

The composite image of the dead officer indicates that he was white (40 per cent were black; 3 per cent other races); that he was in his late twenties or early thirties; median police service five and one-half years; and that he most probably did not have a wife.

He was 40 years old, on average, at the time of his death.

Who were their killers? All but six of last year's killings were cleared by arrest. Of the 192 identified offenders, 77 per cent had prior criminal records; 61 per cent had previously been convicted and released on parole or probation. Sixteen per cent were on parole or probation when they were involved in the killing of another.

Police tabulations march on and on, minutely arithmetical, but no vivid imagination is required to transform the silent facts to flesh and blood. These were 127 men who died in the police service; most of them left widows and children behind.

Some appropriate method should be found, it seems to me, for the living not only to honor these dead but also to honor the profession in which they served. Perhaps a deserved tribute could be arranged if the President annually were to invite to the White House the families of slain officers, there to receive medals in their honor.

If such a ceremony were held in conjunction with Law Day, the sacrifices implied in law enforcement might be dramatically emphasized.

JAMES
KILPATRICK

Another approach is suggested in a bill sponsored chiefly by Senator John McClellan of Arkansas and Senator George Hruska of Nebraska. The McClellan-Hruska bill has passed both House and Senate, in different versions, but has been languishing since April. It would provide for $50 million memorial stipends to the families of both police and firemen killed by felonious action or by accident in the line of duty.

The McClellan-Hruska bill would cost an estimated $20 million a year. It is a sum perhaps unwisely large; the measure might transform an obligation of honor into a bureaucratic hindrance.

Police officers know little of public honor or respect for life; in some fashion, we ought to honor those who pursued law and died instead.

Students are seeing a different coming age. They are talking about integration.

Even some politicians in Europe are beginning to think beyond the divisions of the present to the possibility of unity in the future. The Republic of Ireland, for example, has a brilliant young foreign secretary — Garry Fitzgerald, who is risking his political position by arguing publicly for a unified Ireland.

So in the short run the outlook in Europe is bleak, but there is a new rising generation and it is beginning to emphasize not separation but integration.

Gloomy forecast for Ford presidency

Thursday, September 12, 1974

Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho

(c) New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — The Nixon

pardon is profoundly disturbing for what it foresees about the Ford presidency.

The decision itself, the way it was arrived at, the quality of the person who the President chose to advise him in his thought processes, which he described in his statement of explanation all bode ill for his future conduct in office.

The decision is widely recognized as a mistake,

morally, legally, politically.

Morally—it introduces intolerable inequities into all the Watergate-related trials.

Cynicism, deadly and disluring, has been flung like a corrosive acid into the face of American justice.

Legally—it complicates and may fatally compromise the trials of Nixon's former associates.

Politically, it associates a Republican president and the Republican Party with the corruption, the lying, and the deceit.

When her daughter went for the test, she was told to eat a big breakfast, including sweets. My doctor told me to come without breakfast. Why the difference? Which doctor is right? — Mrs. E.S.

No reason to say either doctor is wrong, because both can be right, and both types of test are used in searching for cases of diabetes. Since there is a strong hereditary influence that affects diabetes, it's wise to test blood relatives of anyone with diabetes.

Your doctor obviously has in mind a "fasting blood sugar" test for you—to see what your blood sugar level is after not having eaten anything overnight.

He may—or may not—follow

it with a "sugar tolerance" test, meaning that he would give you a measured amount of sugar solution, and then take a series of tests over a period of three to six hours, to visualize

the patterns in which your blood sugar rises and falls.

Your sister's daughter's blatant hypocrisy of Watergate less than a day after the G.O.P. thought it had been freed of the Nixon influence.

If the decision was a major blunder, it was also arrived at in exactly the wrong way.

President Ford acted in haste and failed to consult the special prosecutor or the legal counselor, he called on Philip W.

Buchanan, his former law partner from Grand Rapids who is now White House counsel, and Benton L. Becker, a young

Washington attorney who acted as secret intermediary between the White House and

Nixon.

Neither of them has the experience in public life, the standing with the public, or the professional attainments to advise and assist the President on a matter of national importance.

Thus, the agreement that the Treasury John B. Connally

is about to stand trial for allegedly accepting a $10,000

bribe to influence Nixon in reaching a decision on the price of milk. When did the passing of money stop in the milk case?

Similarly, the special prosecutor's staff has been interested in investigating the financial transactions of C. G.

Rebozo, the former president's closest friend. To determine what happened to the $100,000

in cash he collected from

Howard Hughes and other

contributors, some of which

appear to have been "laughed

at" and transferred to

Nixon.

The intellectual and moral

confusion of Ford's statement

is dismayingly clear, from his faulty premise. He compares

Watergate to a robbery in the book which is within his power to punish by writing "the end and closing forever." That might be true if Nixon, as an isolated individual, had committed a single wrongful

act.

But Watergate is a one-word

description for a complex web

of crimes and conspiracies

involving millions of dollars

and dozens of individuals in both public and private life.

Much more remains to be learned about this web.

Thus, former Secretary of

the Treasury John B. Connally

is about to stand trial for

allegedly accepting a $10,000

bribe to influence Nixon in reaching a decision on the price of milk. When did the passing of money stop in the milk case?

That isn't the question. The question is whether such a simple home remedy is going to "serve" the purpose? The problem with pyorrhea is below the gum edge, and superficial swishing in your mouth is not the treatment.

I would advise that you have a dentist take charge.

A mass pardon limited to Watergate defendants would worsen the mistake of the passing of money stop in the milk case?

Similarly, the special

interested in investigating the financial transactions of C. G.

Rebozo, the former president's closest friend. To determine

what happened to the $100,000

in cash he collected from

Howard Hughes and other

contributors, some of which

appear to have been "laughed

at" and transferred to

Nixon.

The intellectual and moral

confusion of Ford's statement

is dismayingly clear, from his

faulty premise. He compares

Watergate to a robbery in

the book which is within his

power to punish by writing "the

end and closing forever." That might be true if Nixon, as an

isolated individual, had

committed a single wrongful

act.

But Watergate is a one-word

description for a complex web

of crimes and conspiracies

involving millions of dollars

and dozens of individuals in both public and private life.

Much more remains to be learned about this web.

Thus, former Secretary of

the Treasury John B. Connally

is about to stand trial for

allegedly accepting a $10,000

bribe to influence Nixon in reaching a decision on the price of milk. When did the passing of money stop in the milk case?

Led to safety

AN EASTERN Airlines stewardess, tentatively identified as Colette Watson, College Park, Ga., is led to safety by an employee of the airline. Miss Watson was uninjured in the crash of an Eastern DC-9 near Charlotte, N.C., early Wednesday that left 69 dead and 13 injured. (UPI)

Survivor of jetliner crash recalls moments of terror

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI) — The sleek, silver, white and blue jetliner exploded in a fireball on impact, hurling chunks of metal and bodies through the air. The noise of the roaring fire and the screams of the dying broke the morning stillness.

Seat cushions, luggage, clothing and other debris littered the field and the adjacent woods.

The singed pages of a book, "Poet Archibald Rutledge's 'The Woods and Wild Things I Remember,'" fluttered beside the foam-covered tail section.

Sixty-nine of the 82 persons aboard the Eastern Airlines jet that was starting to land at Douglas Municipal Airport died in the crash Wednesday.

One of the survivors, Robert Barnham of Charleston, S.C., spoke from his hospital bed:

"We were coming in and the pilot seemed to pick up power. It was real foggy. I felt one wing dip down, then we hit some trees and I felt heat."

"I must have been thrown out of the plane. I rolled over and looked around, and started running toward the woods."

The plane came to rest about 300 yards behind the farm home of Mrs. Barbara Cox, who said one badly burned survivor wandered up and collapsed on her front porch.

"We asked him if he had parachuted," said Mrs. Cox. "He said 'No. I jumped.' We gave him drink of water and covered him with a blanket. I wish I could have done more."

The DC-9 was making a routine radar approach when it slammed into a tree-lined ravine about two and one-half miles south of the runway.

Despite patches of fog, Jack Barker, an FAA spokesman, said, "weather was not a problem." He added, "I'm not going to say it was not a factor because I don't know."

He said that several other flights had landed just ahead of the DC-9 on the same runway.

Officials of the National Transportation Safety Board sifted through the smoldering wreckage for some time after the crash, but they said it would be several days before they would have any indication of the cause.

The plane, Eastern Flight 212, was en route from Charleston, S.C., to Cleveport via Charlotte. The dead included Rear Adm. Charles M. Cummings, the newly named commandant of the 6th Naval District in Charleston, S.C.; John Merriman, an editor for the CBS Evening News from New York; and Wayne Seal, a former legislator from South Carolina. Gov. Robert McNair and news director of WCIV-TV in Charleston, S.C.

Three of the 13 injured were listed in critical condition today, including two women with third degree burns over 30 per cent of their bodies.

One of two stewardesses aboard, Colette Watson of College Park, Ga., walked away practically unscathed. Eastern officials quickly spirited her away and refused to allow newsmen to talk with her.

The copilot, James M. Daniels Jr., also survived the crash that killed the pilot, Capt. James E. Reeves, 48, and stewardess Alicia Kerth, 24. The crew was from Atlanta.

TF burglary probes continue

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls police continued to investigate a series of burglaries Wednesday night. One of the break-ins was here for Earl Knudsen's stamp collection.

Chef of detectives Tim Qualls, however, said he had no evidence connecting the burglaries with out-of-town activity.

About a dozen instances of burglary, vandalism or petty theft were reported to police Tuesday. Among the major reported thefts and damage:

- Rex Knudsen, Twin Falls, reported tools and a chain saw, with a total value of about $300.
- Peter Verka, Twin Falls, reported the theft of items from a shed valued at about $200.
- Mrs. Testa Bellini, Twin Falls, reported the theft of $150 worth of audio equipment from her garage, and $50 damage to the garage.
- Jim Tarter, Twin Falls, reported that a radio unit and camera were stolen from a pack on his bike while it was parked in Twin Falls. Morales estimated the loss at about $275.
- Gene Hamilton, Twin Falls, reported damage from pellet guns to windows of his car estimated at about $600.

Solon scores proposal

HAILEY — Rep. E.V. McLean, R-Ketchum, struck out at the Idaho Health and Welfare Department proposal to place six new state employees in Solon.

Speaking before the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday, McLean cited Idaho No. 1 in the nation in the number of state "bodies on the payroll." He said the state was fourth in the number of employees per capita on natural resources rolls and fifth in employment services.

"There's too many employees in this state on the payroll," McLean said.

The commissioners will be asked for a bigger county budget McLean promised when the "new" employees begin arriving.

HAW director James A. Box said two weeks ago Blaine County was in need of mental health and field service as well as a rounded youth program. He said monies were available to place at least six new employees here.

McLean said the state legislature failed to supplement Bo's budget last year by a million dollars.

"Bo is an energetic and very knowledgeable man," McLean said. "He has great ability to raise federal money but that money comes from you too."

McLean said the county should start with its people and "people in needed positions on the committee."

McLean said the bonds S.R. 11 which would put up revenue bonds for industries to provide pollution control. The bill will be on the November ballot he said.

He said the county could vote for these revenue bonds if they wished. However, the bonds would be backed by industry. McLean said the bonds "shall not" be serviced by the taxing power of the state or such taxing power thereof.

McLean said the passage of the resolution would do much to clean up people-caused pollution.

"You people using energy are causing pollution by your demand," McLean said. "Idaho Power is not pulling out smoke, you are."

He said the resolution would help many industries who don't have the money to provide for pollution abatement.

Jack Holmes, chamber member, recommended a city-wide appearance improvement. Holmes made the recommendations after chamber members were alerted that a supermarket chain may build in the Wood River Valley.

Both Safeway and Albertson's are considering such a move, according to chamber members. Holmes suggested using the city street cleaner machine to clean up the rubble in a vacant lot adjacent to the Fox building on the corner of Crox and Main.

Holmes said he is researching locations for a parking mall in town for the convenience of shoppers to Hailey. In addition he suggested snow should be piled to the middle of the street rather than along the sides for winter shoppers' convenience.

Street commissioner Claude Porter said snow in the middle created traffic hazards — that it had been tried before but the cost factor was too high.

He promised the city would sweep the streets regularly. He said a city ordinance can force a person to sweep in front of his business. Porter said the city could assign someone to sweep the walk and bill the owner but the ordinance had never been enforced.

Many of the chamber members urged the enforcement of the ordinance.

Boston's first settler was William Blackstone, a Church of England preacher. He planted an orchard on what is now Boston Common.

Different kind of trip

TWIN FALLS — Mrs. Testa Bellini, Twin Falls, reported the theft of $150 worth of audio equipment from her garage, and $50 damage to the garage.

Jim Tarter, Twin Falls,

reported that a radio unit and camera were stolen from a pack on his bike while it was parked in Twin Falls. Morales estimated the loss at about $275.

Peter Verka, Twin Falls, reported damage from pellet guns to windows of his car estimated at about $600.

STINSON BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Larry Capone, 31, paddled his surf board from Oregon to San Diego, stopped here Wednesday and told authorities he was setting an example for youth.

Capone said he wanted to show youngsters that they "can take different kinds of trips" for enjoyment instead of turning to drugs.

He left Brookings, Ore., 25 days ago.

Church orders check on CIA Chile role

(C) Washington Star-News

WASHINGTON — Sen.-Frank Church, D-Idaho, chairman of the Senate's multinationl committee, Wednesday ordered his committee staff to review the testimony of two former CIA agents and officials to determine whether there was a prima facie case of perjury against CIA in its testimony in Chile.

Church said he also intended to contact Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, the parent body, to see whether the full committee should open a new investigation of all Central Intelligence Agency activities overseas in the aftermath of revelations that the agency spent nearly $1 million to help the Marxist government of the late President Salvador Allende in Chile.

Church returned to Washington Tuesday night and immediately ordered his subcommittee staff to review testimony given in April, 1973, by Charles A. Meyer, former assistant secretary of state for Inter-American affairs, and former Ambassador to Chile Edward M. Korry.

Interior panel OK's Snake bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A bill to preserve about 400 miles of the Snake River in Idaho, Oregon and Washington for its scenic and recreational values has been approved by the Senate Interior Committee.

The bill, sponsored by three Pacific Northwest senators, would establish the Hell's Canyon National Recreation area, which would encompass the Snake area. The legislation, approved by a voice vote of the committee Wednesday, would forbid the construction of any future dams on the 100-mile stretch of the river.

Approval of the bill was urged by Sens. Frank Church, D-Idaho, and James McClure, R-Idaho, both members of the committee and sponsors of the bill.

The legislation also is sponsored by Sen. Bob Packwood, R-Ore., in addition to blocking construction of the High Mountain Sheep Dam or alternate power projects. The bill also would deauthorize the Soltan Dam Project authorized by Congress in 1962.

A Federal Power Commission examiner has tentatively recommended joint construction of a dam at the Mountain Sheep site by public and investor owned utilities, but asked that work await a decision by Congress on where the river should be preserved.

Under the Senate bill, the 700,000-acre national recreation area would also include 270,000-acre wilderness areas.

A 20-mile stretch of the Snake River from existing Hell's Canyon Dam to Pittsburgh Landing would be designated "wild" river in the National Wild and Scenic Rivers System.

The 44-mile stretch from Pittsburgh Landing to Dough Creek would be declared a "scenic" river, while the next 25 miles of the river downstream to Astoria, Wash., would be declared a "recreational" river.

The legislation would allow for condemnation of private lands by holding such acquisition to only five percent of private lands needed for access to the river.

The legislation would authorize $60 million for access roads, $10 million for land acquisition, $10 million for recreation facilities and $1.5 million for protection of historic and archeological sites.

Pay hike delay hit

(C) New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — Setting the stage for the first congressional confrontation with President Ford, a Senate committee voted unanimously Wednesday to reject Ford's decision to delay for three months a 5.5 per cent pay increase for 3.6 million federal employees.

By a vote of 71 to 10, the Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee adopted a resolution supporting the president's deferral of the pay increase, which had been scheduled to take effect Oct. 1. The increase would cover some 2.5 million civilian employees as well as 2.15 million persons in the armed forces.

Under the law, either house of Congress can overturn the both men testified at the L.T.-Chile hearing six months before the September, 1973, revolution in Chile that the United States secretly adhered to a policy of non-intervention there.

If the committee staff should discover flagrant discrepancies in the Meyer and Korry testimony, Church said he would reconvene the subcommittee hearings on Chile.

Other State Department witnesses, including former assistant secretary of state Jack Kubik and deputy assistant secretary for Latin America Harry Shulman, have testified before other committees that there was no intervention by the U.S. government. Church said he believed otherwise.

"But Korry and Meyer testified before my subcommittee and I have a direct interest in that," Church said.

In order to air the entire matter, Church said, he was considering asking that the full foreign relations committee take up the broad issue of United States activities in Chile from 1964 to 1973.

It was disclosed over the weekend in a letter from Rep. Michael Harrington, D-Mass., that the "40 Committee" of the National Security Council headed by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, authorized expenditures of more than $1 million in Chile to assist Allende institutions to "destabilize" the Allende regime.

United States officials are not denying the truth of the Harrington charges, based on secret testimony by William Colby, director of the C.I.A. All the officials however, deny that the United States had any role in the Sept. 11 military coup that toppled the Allende government.

There is no longer any question that the C.I.A., with approval of Kissinger's "40 Committee," funneled money into Chile in the period of Allende's election in 1970 until just before he was overthrown by a military coup a year ago today.

The operations in Chile, which began in 1964, allegedly were to support intended to strengthen Democratic institutions and parties in countries throughout the Americas.

—presumably—the Russians and Cubans, in the case of Chile.

—clandestinely supported non-Democratic parties.

Kissinger is known to have expressed the view that such operations by a democracy must be carried out with restraint.

In the case of Chile, the justification is suggested that a Democracy might be throttled without covert American assistance. The C.I.A., it is known, designated large amounts of money for the anti-Allende newspaper, El Mercurio, when the price and "necessity" of newspaper sales was used as a weapon by the Santiago government.

Several United States officials have testified before Congressional committees that the United States adhered to a policy of non-intervention in the Allende period. These officials may be called to account for what some spokesmen at the capitol have called "misleading" statements.

Idaho politics span wide area

By United Press International
Inflation, "junk lists," the recent presidential pardon of Richard Nixon and legislation regulating large assemblies in Idaho were major topics on the Idaho political scene Wednesday.

Mike Harrington, Democratic candidate for Second District Congress, said in Pocatello that inflation has become the number one concern of retired people.

Harrington told members of the American Association of Retired Persons, "A cost-of-living index should be drafted and the Social Security computation put into effect."

J. Ray Cox, Democratic candidate for First District Congress, said, "I am going to tell that my opponent remove my name from his super junk mailing list and save the taxpayers of this state, 10 cents."

Cox said he had received a report in the "mall" from the office of Rep. Steve Symms, R-Idaho, that was printed at private expense but was mailed at the taxpayers' expense.

The Democratic candidate for state superintendent of public instruction believes the presidential pardon of Nixon will make it difficult for school teachers to answer questions concerning equal justice under law.

Ray Tracy said in Wallace, "We would all like to get Watergate behind us, but we still teach in our schools that we have a system of government founded on constitutional principles."

Republican Lieutenant Governor nominee Vernon Fawver, who is said in Idaho Falls he will ask the Idaho Legislature to once again consider legislation regulating large assemblies in Idaho.

Abigail Van Buren
© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My wife (I'll call her Ruth) has a sister I'll call Peggy. Peggy's husband is "loaded with money" and Peggy spends a fortune on clothes.

Ruth and Peggy went to college, so Peggy sends Ruth lots of dresses, coats and shoes that she's tired of. All the stuff is just like new, and Ruth looks like a million dollars in them.

Maybe I shouldn't feel this way, Abby, but it bothers me when I see my wife all dressed up in her sister's clothes. Although I can't afford to buy my wife the kind of clothes Peggy sends her, she wouldn't exactly go around in rags if she dressed in clothes that were within our income.

POOH WORKING STIFF

DEAR STIFF: I think you should tell your wife what you've told me. Talk it over, and maybe you can reach an agreeable compromise. You're right, a guy can't help how he feels, and I, for one, can understand your feelings.

DEAR ABBY: My grandmother was one-sixteenth black. She married a white man. Neither she nor any of her children had Negroid features, and they all married whites.

The problem is my wife. I told her of my ancestry before we were married, and it didn't seem to make any difference. But now she refuses to have any children for fear one might be coal-black.

What are the chances of this occurring?

NEEDS TO KNOW

DEAR NEEDS: Zero. A child will be no darker than his darkest parent.

DEAR ABBY: I am blind at age 14, and take my Seeing Eye dog Juniper with me everywhere I go.

Kids will often try to pet Juniper. I like kids, but Juniper is trained not to be friendly with strangers. If he growls, the mother grabs their children and screams, "what a vicious dog!"

Abby, please print this so parents will tell their kids to stay away from Seeing Eye dogs.

JENNIE AND JUNIPER

DEAR JENNIE: Thank you for your informative letter. This might be a good time to warn people against trying to be friendly with ALL strange dogs. Many dogs are used for protection these days and are trained to attack strangers who come too close.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MY READERS: Are you properly registered in order to cast your vote next November? If you don't know where to register, phone ANY political party's headquarters (they're in your phone book) and inquire. May I remind you (with a quote from Edmund Burke) that "All that is necessary for the triumph of evil is that good men do nothing."

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 60700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped self-addressed envelope, please.

Food costs cut by stockpiling

By CRICKET BIRD
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — By stockpiling thousands of cans of food, Twin Falls school lunch director Evelyn Beck has saved more than $10,000.

Late last May, Mrs. Beck purchased "all I had room for in my storeroom." In the way of canned beans, peas, tomatoes, spinach, carrots, ketchup, tomato paste, peaches, apricots, applesauce and more.

The food bought May 31 cost the school lunch program $22,329.10. But rising costs made comparable purchases several months later much higher.

If the same food items had been purchased August 1, Mrs. Beck said, the cost would have been $31,996.15. The early buying saved the program $9,668.05.

Mrs. Beck said she usually buys some of the food stuffs in May, but not all she can squeeze into her storeroom.

But with the "constant everyday items such as plastic products, like garbage pail liners, has tripled. Detergent has also gone up steadily, Mrs. Beck said.

Any salad oil is "totally out of the question," she added. Another penny pinch is being felt with the phasing out of the government's commodity program. This year the district will have to purchase item shortfalls, and other products the government used to

"We're still trying to do the best we can without raising prices," she said. The price of fruit has increased most, Mrs. Beck said—primarily because it has sugar has skyrocketed.

A case of six one-gallon cans of peaches which cost $9.95 last May now costs more than $15.

In addition, the price of min-

Blaine planning aides threatened with suit

HAILEY — Blaine County planning and zoning commissioners were threatened with a lawsuit Tuesday if they don't grant a flood plain building permit.

Attorney James Kennedy, representing Terren Corp., Gimlet, said by refusing to act on a preliminary plat submitted in January this year, by order of the county ordinance, the plat was approved.

Quoting from the ordinance, Kennedy pointed out specific which he said in view of the time period involved without action by the commissioners the plat was automatically approved.

Kennedy then pressed the commissioners to authorize planning and zoning administrator Bob Barnes to issue the permit. Kennedy said if the commissioners voted against the permit he would bring court action against Barnes, county clerk Marie Ivie or the planning and zoning department.

The dispute involves a lot purchased by Wally Wright, Ketchum, from Ted Toren which is located in the flood plain at Gimlet. Part of the lot just into Big Wood River, according to commission members.

Commission members have been reluctant to grant building permits close to the river. The new county comprehensive plan not yet approved encourages controlled growth away from the river.

The commission sent letters to all applicants in January, according to chairman Nick Purdy, seeking their approval to hold back commission application of subdivision until the plan was completed.

Purdy said when they received no letter from Toren they assumed he agreed to wait.

Wendell plans workshop

WENDELL — Glen Jorgenson, Los Angeles, has been invited to conduct an in-service workshop for the Wendell school district faculty, Sept. 19, Lawrence LaRue said Thursday.

Final dates for the workshop have not been confirmed, LaRue told school trustees at the September board meeting. He said Jorgenson stresses positive atmosphere to motivate learning.

LaRue told trustees grass has been planted on 10 acres at the site of the new school and the board approved purchase of an electric pump and sprinkler pipe.

The board approved renting of office space in downtown Wendell for the superintendent and clerk's offices. LaRue said this move will ex-

4 power plants planned

The report projects that neighboring coal-rich states might want to build power plants in Idaho.

"It appears that there are inadequate water supplies at some fuel site locations in neighboring states for evaporative cooling of their plants. Therefore, it is quite possible that plants will be installed in Idaho adjacent to water supply areas, transmission networks and distribution lines," it says.

King specified Montana as "the water-poor state that might look to Idaho for plant siting. But Dan Regan, information officer for Montana Power Co., said, "We have no plans whatsoever even in the long-range of building plants in Idaho." The company is now considering construction of two 700-megawatt units at Colstrip, Mont., he said.

Jim Shoemaker, public affairs director for Utah Power and Light, denied the company has any plans to establish a 1,500-megawatt plant by 1980 in the Bear River Valley.

Utah Power, he said, has "no plans for construction of such a plant by any given date." Foreseeing the possible construction of a plant, however, the company, around a year ago reserved a reservoir storage rights for 35,000 acre feet of water south of Soda Springs. These rights apply to "excess water" not already freed on. Very little such water now exists, but it may pedite the overall operation of the school district, and supervision of the new building construction. The downtown location will allow easier access for patrons who desire to discuss problems with the superintendent and interruptions from student body activities will be minimized, LaRue said, allowing for more efficient use of time.

Communications from students and teachers will be routed through the building principals before reaching the superintendent's office.

LaRue said sale of the $65,000 school bonds is set for 8 p.m. Monday in the Wendell High School Library.

Trustees approved hiring of a school counselor whose name is being withheld until the contract is signed.

Road closure set

FAIRFIELD — The road north of Fairfield into the Sawtooth National Forest from the Five Points Junction to Smyrna Bar will be closed during the day for three weeks beginning Monday.

The temporary closure, which will be effective from 6 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday for the three-week period, is necessary while blasting and rock removal is in progress during reconstruction of this three-mile section of the Ketchum-Featherville road, according to District Ranger Larry M. Weeks.

He said the road will be open from 4:30 p.m. until 6 a.m. each work day and open all day Saturday and Sunday. Motorists are asked to contact the Fairfield ranger station, 764-2292, for further information concerning the condition of this road.

Decision reviewed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The American ambassador to Sweden, Robert Strzok, told Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, in a letter that the Swedish government is now reviewing its decision to increase import levies on American potato products.

Church believes Sweden's decision earlier on import levies could do harm to Idaho's farm economy.

Soviet harvest large but US lacks details

(6) New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — United States experts say the Soviet Union, the world's largest grain producer, will have one of its biggest harvests this year.

But because the Soviet government operates its grain business in the manner of a giant corporation, guarding its secrets, the American experts are still unable to determine with full assurance whether there will be just enough, a little extra or a slight shortfall in the harvest.

The answers seem important now. In a world where grain demand on the U.S. market is no uncertain how the food deficit resulting from drought in the Midwest will be divided.

Specialists at the Department of Agriculture estimated recently that the Soviet Union would produce 200 million metric tons of grain this year, down from the 1973 record of 222.5 million tons, but far above the previous record of 167 million tons set in 1970.

The problem is that no one outside the Soviet Union — despite substantial progress made under a year-old agreement on information exchanges — can obtain statistics on just how much Moscow expects to produce or even how much was left over from the big 1973 crop. As a result, they are left to piece together information gleaned from Russian newspapers' "travelers" reports, weather statistics, photographic evidence from satellites and reports by Agriculture Department teams under the exchange agreement.

One such team was called back to the United States last week when its members were told by Soviet officials they could visit only one of the six areas they felt they needed to see to make an assessment on the progress of the spring wheat crop.

U.S. officials are convinced that the problem of the most recent inspection team was a result of logistical difficulties on Moscow's part rather than an intent to hide crop shortcomings.

They are hopeful that a meeting of U.S. and Soviet representatives scheduled for October will bring more progress on data to be examined. "We're trying to get across to them that markets can't work well without a free flow of information," John M. Beshar, head of the department's United States-Soviet Secretariat, said. "And that they are part of the world market."

Price dip for beef possible

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Concerns of price could come down if new Agriculture Department proposals to reclassify certain cuts are approved.

The department's livestock division chief, John C. Pierce, said Tuesday that the new system would assure more uniformity in the quality of beef under the Prime, Choice and Good grades, the most popular consumer cuts.

The new system would give higher classifications to some lower grade cuts. As a result, the price would be less likely to be fed costly grains to achieve the current high grades, which in turn might save shoppers money.

"The net effect, increased production at less cost and less waste fat, could be reflected in lower prices at the retail level," Pierce said.

Pressure for such a change in the grading system grew recently when the summer drought sharply reduced the crop and increased pressure for feed grains used to fatten top quality beef. Officials predict that farmers now will shift to marketing grass-fed cattle, which have less fat.

The grading proposal will be open to consumer and industry review for 90 days.

Output up in Ireland

LONDON (CNS) — Agricultural production in Ireland will double in the next 20 years, according to the results of a study by the Irish Farmers' Association.

According to Agri Europe, the association expects at least a doubling in production by 1983, while exports should rise from 270 million pounds ($624 million) last year to 728 million pounds. ($1.681 million).

Active mart reported at Jerome

Dryness aids Gem harvest operations

BOISE (UPI) — A lack of moisture had helped Idaho harvest operations, but the lack of rain has hindered dryland areas.

The U.S. Agriculture Department and National Weather Service said Tuesday the dryland areas needed rain to overcome the lack of soil moisture for seedling fall grains and growth of forage on ranges and non-irrigated pastures.

The agencies said the grain harvest was nearing completion across the state except for a few fields of winter wheat and late seedings of spring grain in the higher elevation areas.

They also reported that preparation of tools and application of fertilizer for fall grain crops continued.

Potato harvest is becoming active in Southwest Idaho while harvesting of dry beans made good headway last week with about one-third of the acreage swathed and 10 per cent of the crop threshed.

Cutting of third crop alfalfa hay was one-third finished in Southern Idaho and harvesting of alfalfa seed was underway.

Imports off

LONDON (CNS) — Soviet meat imports, which had fallen sharply in 1972 from the high levels of 1970, and 1971 made some recovery in 1973.

The Commonwealth Secretariat reports in the latest meat and dairy produce bulletin that Soviet meat imports rose last year as a result of increased supplies from China. These were up from 10,000 tons in 1972 to 18,000 tons last year. Total imports were put at 45,000 tons against 39,500 tons in 1972.

No quick estimate of sugar crop loss

ST. JAMES, La. (UPI)

The president of one of Louisiana's largest farm cooperatives says it is too early to tell how bumper sugar prices will go because of damage to the state's cane crop by Hurricane Carmen, although they will definitely be up.

"I wouldn't venture a guess right now. There are so many factors," F. A. Grauhardt of the St. James coop said Wednesday.

Most cane experts agreed that Carmen would cost the state's sugar cane farmers 20 per cent of their crop and $100 million in damages.

"Our best estimate is that Louisiana will fall to 200,000 tons on the market that otherwise would have reached it without Hurricane Carmen," said Grauhardt.

But Grauhardt said, "I'm not willing to concede that the [supermarket] prices are high. The consumer, and I'm one, has been accustomed to paying cheap prices for sugar."

"There may not be any sugar available for early deliveries. The end result of this can only mean higher prices."

Orioles edge Yankees in 17th, drop second game*Memphis shatters unbeaten Americans

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Wide receiver Edward Marshall caught three touchdown passes as the revenge-hungry Memphis Southmen broke Birmingham's perfect World Football League record Wednesday night, destroying the Americans 46-7.

The Southmen's third-year pro from Cullinan State haulied in scoring passes of 12 and six yards from quarterback John Huarte, and a 48-yard halfback pass from John Harvey.

The Southmen also scored on a one-yard dive by Willis Spencer, an eight-yard run by J. L. Jennings, and a 20-yard pass from Huarte to Gary Shirk.

Birmingham, now 10-1, scored on a six-yard pass from backup quarterback Matthew Reed to Dennis Hornman.

The Southmen, 9-2, after early season losses to Birmingham and Philadelphia, trailed the Americans by one point in the Central Division race.

The Southmen mounted an eight-minute drive from the 29-yard line for the game's first score, on their first possession.

Jennings and Spencer ground out the yardage until Spencer plunged over right tackle from yard out for the score.

Memphis started its second drive from its own 33 and Jennings ran eight yards for the score four minutes into the second quarter.

Cornelius David Thomas intercepted a George Mira pass to set up the third Memphis touchdown. Harvey ran 10 yards on the first play from the Birmingham 42, and, after a series of unsuccessful runs, Huarte threw to Shirk for the score.

Birmingham scored with 51 seconds remaining in the first half after cornerbacks Charles Iteamon intercepted a Memphis pass at the Southmen's 32. Reed threw 10 yards to Ted Powell, ran 13 yards to the six and threw to Hornman in the end zone to make it 22-7.

In the third quarter, Dick Thornton intercepted a Birmingham pass and two plays later Huarte handed off to Harvey and the halfback threw 8 yards to Marshall for the score.

Five seconds into the fourth quarter Huarte capped a 92-yard drive with a 12-yard touchdown pass to Marshall. Less than a minute later, linebacker Bob Lahey intercepted a Reed pass and Harvey threw six yards to Marshall for the final touch down.

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Larry Gura's masterful five-hitter pitched helped the New York Yankees salvage a doubleheader split with a 5-1 victory Wednesday night after the Baltimore Orioles won the opener, 3-2, in a 17-inning marathon on Boog Powell's pinch single.

The split meant the Yanks maintained their two-game lead over the Orioles in the American League East.

L. M. Boyd

Scientists put some roosters into total darkness in a 2,400-foot underground. They couldn't see the sun come up, of course. But when it did so every morning far above, they crowed anyway. Business as usual. However, men likewise tested in that cave within hours lost any notion at all of whether it was day or night. Except for that plus feathers and flight, the rooster is superior to man in very few ways, myth mention.

HOW MANY professions are symbolized by the names of streets? So inquires a client. Wall Street stands for the stock market game. Madison Avenue, for advertising. London's Fleet Street, for journalism. That's all I can think of.

THE LAST SUPPER

Leonardo Da Vinci painted "The Last Supper" not just once nor twice but repeatedly. On just about every wall in Milan, Italy. And although that masterpiece is now thought by many to be the world's greatest painting, it wasn't always so well accepted. Carpenters cut windows in Da Vinci's wall paintings. Householders pounded pegs into them to hang things on. And soldiers of the day found the life-sized disciples ideal for target practice.

Q. "NEXT to oil, what's the most valuable product in world trade?"

A. Coffee, I'm told.

ARGUMENT continues over which was man's oldest invention, but some authorities insist the tying of knots merits that distinction.

SEARS

Recall what Mr. Sears did for a living before he got together with Mr. Roebuck? A spectacular old story, that. Sears worked as a railroad station agent in Redwood Falls, Minn. A batch of watches one day came in C.O.D. for a local jeweler who refused them. Sears conceived the notion that all his railroad friends made up a ready market for said watches. So he asked the shipper to release them to him on consignment. He not only sold them, but numerous others. So many, in fact, he wound up advertising for a watchmaker to help him. And you'll remember that when Alvah C. Roebuck showed up to apply for the job, together, they moved the mail order operation to Minneapolis, picked up different merchandise, and printed catalogues. Roebuck sold out to Sears for about $70,000. Eventually, Sears sold out to Julius Rosenwald for $10 million.
